Leaders and Ecclesiastical Authority:

Acceptance of Authority—

PART 1

Based on the Presentation by

Ángel Manuel Rodríguez

Biblical Research Institute
Session 6 will address the following questions:

1. What is the difference between “authority” and “power” as these apply to the church?

2. Why does God have supreme authority?

3. How does God use His power?

4. In what ways did Jesus use His power and authority?

5. Where does the authority of the church come from?
6. What is implied by the “entrusted” dimension of ecclesiastical authority?

7. What three entities cooperate in exercising ecclesiastical authority?

8. What is the role of Ellen White regarding church authority?

9. What functions does ecclesiastical authority serve in the church?

10. What do we mean by “delegated authority”? How is it exercised in the Adventist Church?
One of the most difficult topics in developing the theological doctrine of the church (ecclesiology) is defining and establishing the nature, extent, and function of ecclesiastical authority.
Ecclesiastical Authority

Terms Defined

Ecclesiology: “theological doctrine relating to the church” (Webster’s New Collegiate Dictionary)

Ecclesiastical authority: the authority of the church

Power (dunamis):
- “being able,” “capacity’ in virtue of an ability”
- the capacity to carry something out
- usually associated with the ability to produce change
Authority: (exousia)
- freedom; ability; power, authority
- emphasizes the right of a person to exercise power

The Bible does not make a clear distinction between “authority” and “power.”

Here we use them as follows:

- Authority: the right to exercise power
- Power: the ability to produce change
II. Searching for a Model for Ecclesiastical Authority

Where does supreme authority lie?

In Christian theology, God has supreme authority. Man has limited authority.
Reasons that God has supreme authority:
He is Creator

17“Ah, Sovereign LORD, You have made the heavens and earth by your great power and outstretched arm. Nothing is too hard for you.”
Jer 32:17 (NIV)

20For since the creation of the world God’s invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature—have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made . . .
Rom 1:20 (NIV)
He is Redeemer

John 10:15,18 (NIV)

15“... and I lay down my life for the sheep.
18No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority to lay it down and authority to take it up again...”

Rom 1:16 (NIV)

16I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God for the salvation of everyone who believes...

Rom 1:16 (NIV)
The will of the Creator and Redeemer

- stands above any other will
- is to be recognized as supreme
God’s authority and power are part of His very nature.
The authority and power of God

- are exercised in love
- are constantly seeking the best for His creatures
- provide requirements to preserve the lives of His creatures.
- establish what is indispensable for us to enjoy.
- are not limiting.
- facilitate our self-realization.
- promote development of our potential.
God does not use His authority and power as a despot

- for self-satisfaction and self-aggrandizement
- to display selfish power or egotistical dominion over others
Rather, He uses His authority and power

- to show His love
- to sustain and preserve His creation
- in acts of benevolence toward others
Because God’s power is incorruptible and unique, Scripture does not acknowledge the existence of any other supreme power.
Other powers have enslaved humans, but Christ defeated those powers.

15 And having disarmed the powers and authorities, he made a public spectacle of them, triumphing over them by the cross.

Col 2:15 (NIV)
Because of the goodness of God’s authority, we should submit to Him in worship and service.
God works for the welfare of others. His authority sets limits to chaos and anarchy. Intelligent creatures cannot enjoy life in chaos.

The authority of God opposes powers that
- destroy development of the potential God gave us
- distort His character
God’s Authority Revealed in the Life and Ministry of Jesus.
He replied, “You of little faith, why are you so afraid?” Then he got up and rebuked the winds and the waves, and it was completely calm.

The men were amazed and asked, “What kind of man is this? Even the winds and the waves obey him!”

Matt 8:26-27 (NIV)
He had power over demons.
He had authority over sickness.
When Jesus used His authority to overcome those forces, He was

- acting in behalf of human beings
- offering them the chance to submit to Him in freedom
- enabling them to become what God intended them to be
He was mighty and powerful in speech and in the interpretation of the Scriptures.
By His authority, He freed humans from the darkness of ignorance of God to the wonderful light of truth.
In a special way, Jesus’ authority was shown in His freedom to give His life as a sacrifice for us. “No one takes it [my life] from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority to lay it down and authority to take it up again.” (John 10:18 NIV)
Our understanding of the divine authority in the life of Christ helps us understand

- the nature of ecclesiastical authority
- how that authority should be used
III. Understanding the Proper Use and the Limits of Ecclesiastical Authority

A. Ecclesiastical Authority: Sources and Nature

The question of ecclesiastical authority—

• its nature,
• how it is expressed,
• recognition of church authority, and
• subjection to it— is one of the most challenging issues the Adventist Church faces.

Ecclesiology is grounded in

- the concept of authority
- its recognition in the life of the church

Christ endowed His church with authority.

19“
I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven; whatever you bind on earth will be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will be loosed in heaven.”

Matt 16:19 (NIV)
The “entrusted” dimension of ecclesiastical authority

- is of major importance in the community of believers.
- is directly related to the Lordship of Christ over the church.
- should not be arbitrarily restricted to a limited group of individuals.
- should be a basic consideration in any discussion of the nature of ecclesiastical authority.
God’s authority cannot be separated from its embodiment in the Bible.

He continues to reveal Himself through His word.
The Bible is

- the objective record of the authority of God
- the source to define and understand ecclesiastical authority
The role of the Spirit is relevant for the topic of church authority. The authority of the Spirit is revealed through the message of Scripture. Any claim of a manifestation of the Spirit is to be tested by the witness of Scripture.
The Spirit, the Scripture, the world community of believers work together in the exercise of ecclesiastical authority.
Ellen White’s “writings are a continuing and authoritative source of truth which provide for the church comfort, guidance, instruction, and correction. They also make clear that the Bible is the standard by which all teaching and experience must be tested.”

(Fundamental Beliefs of Seventh-day Adventists: 17)
While the Bible defines ecclesiastical authority and determines the role of that authority, the writings of Ellen White should be used to help us understand and illustrate the use of that authority in the life of the Adventist Church today.
Scripture calls church members to submit to one another and to church leaders.

21 Submit to one another out of reverence for Christ.
Eph 5:21 (NIV)

17 Obey your leaders and submit to their authority. They keep watch over you as men who must give an account. Obey them so that their work will be a joy, not a burden . . .
Heb 13:17 (NIV)
When we obediently submit to others, we recognize
- Christ as our Lord
- that He is Lord over the church

Ecclesiastical authority
- is dependent on the authority of Christ within the church.
- defines and determines the church’s message and mission.
- preserves the church in the midst of its conflict against opposing forces.
B. Ecclesiastical Authority: Organization and Leadership

Church authority is the freedom granted by Christ to the church to work with Him in fulfilling His mission.

Organization is indispensable for the church to effectively use the authority the Spiritual gifts help organize the church to build it up and enable it to fulfill its mission.

11 It was he who gave some to be apostles, some to be prophets, some to be evangelists, and some to be pastors and teachers, 12 to prepare God’s people for works of service, so that the body of Christ may be built up.

13 until we all reach unity in the faith and in the knowledge of the Son of God and become mature, attaining to the whole measure of the fullness of Christ.

Eph 4:11-13 (NIV)
Members exercise church authority through delegates.

Delegates gather to make decisions on behalf of the whole church.

The Bible set the pattern for delegated authority in the early church in Acts 15.

These delegates are the appointed leaders of the church.
Appointed leaders should use their delegated authority to help the church to realize its mission.

The community of believers delegates authority, but does not surrender it.

The world church may withdraw this delegated authority.
Adventists see ecclesiastical authority as diffused throughout the world church.

It has been delegated to leaders in local fields and congregations.
The proper tendency among leaders is to work through consensus.

This takes place through study of Scripture and the work of the Spirit in leading the church into all truth.
Local congregations need to realize that they participate in the fullness of the church as long as they identify themselves with the MESSAGE MISSION UNITY of the global church.

This global perspective is essential for the proper function of the church.
